Websites for Facts and Information about Mexico

It's a big country isn't it? Mexico is the world's 14th largest country and it's noticeable even on a map!

Websites for facts:

www.sciencekids.com

Rating:3

It doesn't have a lot of facts, but is easy to navigate and has clear and easy to read facts.

Mexicofunfacts.com

Rating:3.75

This website has a lot of facts and information. Its problems are that it is kind of crowded and is hard to look through.

Easyscienceforkids.com

Rating:4

Lots of information, clear layout, and interesting facts.

There will be many books about Mexico at the Round Lake Library so be sure to check them out! I don't have any books to recommend you, but remember to look at the nonfiction children's section where you will find books that have information to help you at any project or assignment ranging from countries, science, history and much more!

Websites for maps:

www.lonely-planet.com

Rating:5

It has maps of Mexico and of all of its states with a lot of detail.

Websites for Mexican History:

www.timeforkids.com

Rating:2.5

It is a simple timeline with only a few facts, but those facts are important and are fast and easy to find.

You won't have to worry too much about Mexico's history as some of the other websites will have information about it too.
